The thing I don't like about movie battles is that they shoot right at each other so long before it occurs to some one to get killed. Mrs. Em Moots' brother is quite a character. He still votes and carries a tooth brush in his vest pocket.

State Death Chair "Unpatronized" By Women

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 16.—(U.P.)—Although Pennsylvania annually takes an average of 12 lives as penalty of crime, no woman ever has sat in the electric chair in the death house at the Rockview penitentiary. In the entire history of the state only eight women, records here show, have been executed for any crime.

The last woman to be executed was Catherine Miller, who died on the gallows in Williamsport, Pa., on February 3, 1881. She was convicted of assisting George Smith in the murder of Mrs. Miller's husband.

Since that time there has never been an execution of woman, the state having taken over execution of criminals from the counties and the gallows having replaced electric chair.

12 KILLED IN OKLAHOMA TORNADO

Families Flee Homes, Levee Breaks

HUGE DAMAGE TOLL FOLLOWS RIVER FLOOD

KENNETT, Mo., June 16.—(U.P.)—One thousand families were imperiled today when a flood poured eastward through two breaks in the St. Francis river levee, about six miles north of here. Approximately 15,000 acres of cotton and corn land were inundated while families fled to safety.

Kennett officials feared an additional 15,000 acres would be overflowed as the levee breaks widened. The crest of the flood is expected to pass tomorrow. No loss of life has been reported. Approximately 1200 citizens and five companies of Missouri National Guard are working in efforts to assist families in the path of the water and to check the overflow.

Reports were coming in of a threatened flood farther north along the St. Francis and of a levee break on the White river near Newport, Ark. Mayor R. R. Plankey of Brown Ferry, 12 miles north of Kennett, reported that he believed the St. Francis river embankment at that point had been strengthened sufficiently to hold, although it still threatened collapse.

More than 700 families were said to be homeless near Newport, Ark., where efforts to hold the levee against the White river high water stage failed. Many were being cared for by the Red Cross. Men who worked frantically to strengthen the embankment narrowly escaped death as it collapsed.

Families had been warned and there was no loss of life. Flooding of its tracks has forced the Rock Island railroad to suspend service into Newport. The Arkansas villages of Auvergne, Shoffner, Weldon and Tupelo were almost deserted as the flood advanced.

Houston Scene Of Bustle As Day Nears For Opening Of Democratic Convention

By KENNETH McCALL,
U. P. Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, Tex., June 16.—(U.P.)—There was a bustle and bustle in Houston today that foretold some extraordinary event.

Names that spell political power in the ranks of the democratic party are on hotel registers and more are being added daily. A man in a brown derby draws many eyes as he mingles in the throngs on the streets.

Campaign literature and buttons made their appearance for another political convention. With Clem Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee due to call the party's quadrennial confab to order within a fortnight, Houston is checking up on her plans for entertaining the delegates and visitors who are expected here—checking up to see that no plans have gone astray and that everyone will be well provided for.

When Shaver talks for publication—as he did today—his audience here awaits his words with expectancy. The national political war this year, said the democratic leader, will be fought along new lines because of the republican nomination of Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis. He sees in these nominations an abandonment of the east by the G. O. P.

"Usually they carry their fight from the east into the west, but now the situation is reversed."

She wrote to the president of the court saying her married life was unhappy and she was tired of everything.

Blair, a town of about 500 inhabitants, was said to have suffered great damage, with several persons killed, according to first reports.

WAR EXPLOITS OF CRUISER IN PICTURE HERE

A brave man, and a fine sailor—that was Captain Earl van Muller of the Emden. His exploits, and that of the valiant cruiser which he commanded, form the basis of the German film, which will run today only at the California theatre.

The story opens with the Emden at anchor in Tsingtau harbor, China, at the outbreak of the war. "Carry on independent operations in the Indian Ocean" was the order signalled from the German flag-ship of Admiral Von Spee. Excellent fight pictures are shown during this epic encounter as the death dealing guns and the long, sleek torpedoes, are turned against the enemy. The steering gear is shot away.

"The Emden's ho or must remain unstained"—and so, amid a circle of saddened officers and men—the cruiser's flag is burned.

A minor love story runs through the picture, but it neither adds nor detracts from the interest of the film.

"Noble men fought for their fatherlands—and humanity pays the price."

Other film features include that funny comedian Lubino Lane in "Some Scout." Fox News and the cry of winter scene.

HUMES STARS IN WILD WEST THRILLER HERE

Galloping horses ridden by men who know no fear and have a reckless disregard for danger create an atmosphere of the Old West in "The Border Cavalier," the Universal Western picture coming to the Richmond theatre tomorrow with Fred Humes as the star.

The little cowboy actor does some of the most spectacular riding of his screen career in this picture which is a thrilling story of a man's devotion to his employer in the old days.

Two wholesome interests run through the story, one of them being that of the two tearful villain, played by Boris Bullock, and Anderson, and the comedy acted by Fred Humes and his four riders consisting of "Dee Dee" Holmes, Benny Corbett, Dick L'Estrange and Scotty Matraw.

William Wyle, himself a typical Westerner and a great follower of great outdoors, directed the making of "The Border Cavalier" and his work in this production is any of that in his previous pictures.

The supporting cast includes the well-known actress, Joyce Campbell, a pretty blonde who plays the lead, Dick LaReno and John Pierce.

Other film features include "Collegians No. 6" and "Sportlight."

Sincerity is Requisite Of "It" Says Noted Film Comedienne

"It" is that elusive quality known as "screen personality."

On the questions that occupy the actual and collective mind of the fascinating city of make-believe reality which is known as Hollywood, there have been more words of thousands of words, led in trying to answer that one, perhaps, than any other.

Some producers will tell you that it is an inner spark of genius. Elinor Glyn will tell you that it is "It." Camera men offer the theory that it is a face with good camera angles.

It may be all of these things, and yet none. But Norma Talmadge, star of "The Dove," which is to be shown at the California Theatre tomorrow and Tuesday believes that if a definition of "screen personality" had to be given in one word, that word would be: "Sincerity!"

"The camera is notoriously a liar about a beauty," says Miss Talmadge. "Or perhaps that is too strong a statement. Let us say, rather, that the camera flatters some and does an injustice to others. Or it may prevaricate both for and against the same person at different times. But there is one quality which I believe every camera in the world will register, and that quality is the inner sincerity which gives rise to all acting that is worth while."

"I believe that there is no quality so highly prized among the members of The Profession themselves. Without honesty and conviction within the artist, one cannot 'feel' the role properly; and without the ability to feel the role, acting becomes simply a shell—a dead thing—a series of grimaces which carry no message to the spectator because there is no message to carry."

Miss Talmadge is firm in the conviction that the heart, even more than the brain, should govern the thespian, and she is convinced that this one actor makes the difference between just being "an actor" and belonging to that exclusive group to whom film folk refer with respect as "real trouper." Not that she minimizes the value of intelligence in interpreting a part. But no matter how brilliant may be the kind which is creating a role, she believes that if the heart is lacking, the performance will be cold, mechanical and scenic.

The speaker at the morning service next Sunday, June 24, will be (Continued on Page Eight)

TENDERLOIN

CHAPTER IV.

Through the thick, white mist that still hung heavy despite the slackening rain, the hands of the tall tower clock were barely discernible. Only the round, orange face that shone like a sallow moon in a pale sky was visible. But now the clanging bell tolled out two short beats, and then lapsed back into a death-like silence. Uptown the lights about Broadway were still twinkling, but down here through the Tenderloin everything seemed to sleep—everything, that is, save the policeman on the beat, the corner bank and a few all-night restaurants. And even they seemed to suggest that it might be better were they abed and out of the darkness of the storm.

A stray cat yowled miserably. On a side street the muffled roar of a motor slowly passed out of hearing. A bedraggled drunk, his cap pulled down over his eyes, lurched into a lamp post, righted himself, and moved on. The policeman eyed him for a moment and then turned his back.

Two men, one heavy-set, the other a slender racing-type, walked hurriedly along, their hands deep in the pockets of their overcoats. They scurried up the steps of the bank that sent forth this sign: "Mercer National Bank, Open Day and Night." Cafe owners making their nightly deposits, the policeman decided, and sauntered along his rounds.

The two men swung open the bank door and walked over to the cashier's cage where, on the desk, rested a satchel. The teller, who had been standing in the enclosure going over some business with the cashier, looked up, jadedly, at the heavy-set man. A slight crack like the pop of the cork on a bottle of champagne. The teller caught his shattered wrist with a moan of pain. The cashier hung up his hands without further ado.

"Hand it over!" A burly hand pushed open the bars of the cage and seized the satchel, thrusting it into the arms of his smaller companion. The two gangsters backed towards the door, the revolver still covering the terrified bank clerk. A shriek of a motor siren came from without. The automatic barked again. Then, with a short turn the two men were out of the door, across the sidewalk, and into the waiting machine. A final shot sent shattering plate glass flying. A shriek of skidding wheels, and the car was off and down the street.

A police whistle rang shrill and clear, cutting the night air. An automatic warning sounded, sending an armored car into immediate motion. Pop-pop-pop-pop! A hand machine gun blazed a screaming trail of death. A police car drove up in front of the bank. Five blue coats jumped out and took up the trail on foot. Heads came suddenly from the surrounding windows and then were jerked back again as the crack-crack of the guns filled the air. Sleeping-bum scurried like rats for the protecting shelter of the alleyways. Only the black shadow of the holdup car could be seen, away from the street as it skidded down the street at breakneck speed, closely followed by the armored car.

In the first automobile a slender figure bent tensely over the steering wheel, his eyes set on the road ahead, his face twisted in grim determination. Beside him crouched the Sparrow, huddled down on the seat, his body trembling, his face a twitching in a frenzy of terror. In the rear of the car, lying on the floor for protection, the automatic, thrust through the side curtains, spitting an answering rain of bullets back towards the police car, rode "The Mug." His heavy, scarred face, with its protruding lower jaw, took on an apish look in the light of flashing lamps.

"Get a move on! Ar, for Gawd's sake, Lefty! Shove 'er up!" The Sparrow was pleading pitifully as a round of bullets from the trailing car shattered the side of a brick building.

"Shut-a-move-a, Lefty!" Lefty commanded from his position at the wheel, never taking his eyes from the road. "Lead holdin' out, Mug?" He flung the words back over his shoulder.

"Yeah!" The Mug returned emphatically, spending his energies on clanging to the floor and returning fire.

OAK FACTORY EMPLOYEES IN NEW UNIFORM

An army of something more than 15,000 men, representing the service station personnel of the Oakland Motor company throughout the United States, is being outfitted in a standard uniform, according to J. P. Strom, local distributor.

Soon this entire group of Oakland-Pontiac service specialists will be wearing the uniform recently adopted by the Oakland Motor Car company.

The new service garb includes one uniform for the "privates" of Oakland's shop army and another for the "officers." The former will wear coveralls of special two-tone, willow-powder blue with trim on pockets and collar of dark navy blue. The "officers" or floor men will wear a long coat of similar color and materials. Both the mechanics and the floor men will wear hats to match their uniforms.

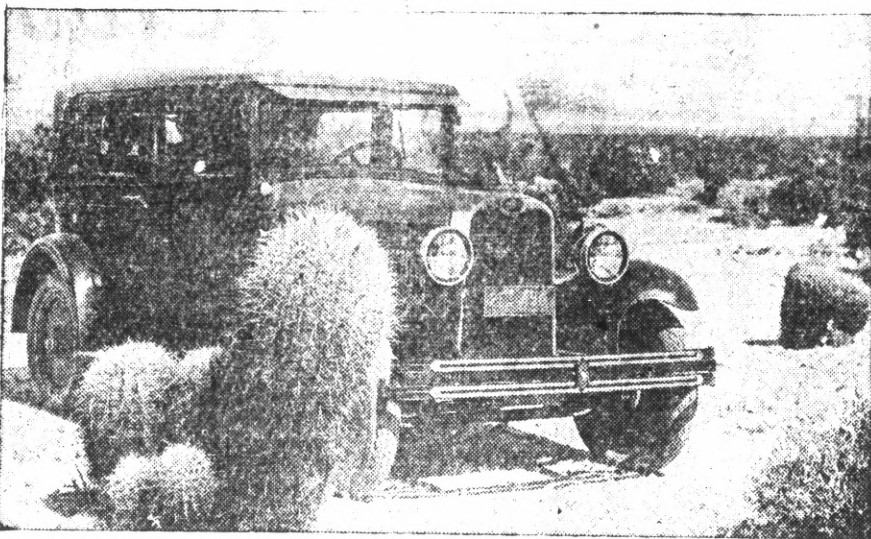

According to R. A. Armstrong, service manager for the Oakland Motor Car company, the decision to uniform his nation-wide organization is the latest development in an unending campaign to raise still further the standards of Oakland-Pontiac service.

"We train our men with painstaking care and maintain a force of factory service representatives who visit every Oakland-Pontiac service station at frequent intervals," Armstrong said. "We have decided upon a standard service uniform not alone because of the more favorable impression that a neatly uniformed service department will make upon the public, but also because of the psychological effect that the new uniform should have upon the service men themselves."

Chevrolet To Build Big Assembly Plant In Kansas

Making the latest step in a movement to keep pace with the growing demand for its cars, the Chevrolet Motor company announced this week that construction will start shortly on a new, multi-story Chevrolet assembly plant in Kansas City. This follows directly on the opening of a similar plant in Atlanta to serve the Southeast, according to the Golden Rule Chevrolet company, local dealer.

When completed in three or four months, the new plant will be the largest automobile factory in the southwest and will represent an investment of more than $2,000,000. Like the Atlanta plant, the Kansas City factory will have a capacity of 350 cars a day, providing they the various buildings which will include the main Chevrolet plant, an office building, parts and service building, drive-in wash, loading dock and power house. With the exception of the office building the units will all be of one story, motor type construction allowing for the maximum amount of light for workmen. Nearly one-half of the huge Chevrolet-Fisher assembly plant will be occupied by the Fisher body corporation for the building of bodies for all Chevrolet cars. This close association in other Chevrolet assembly plants throughout the country.

W. S. Kimball, president of the Chevrolet Motor company, declared that the opening of a plant in Kansas has been made necessary to relieve the St. Louis and Jamesville plants, where the demand has been taxing production facilities and making it necessary for the company to work overtime for the regular flow of cars in line southwest and will represent an investment of more than $2,000,000.

Completion of the Kansas City project will provide Chevrolet with nine assembly plants throughout the country and an export plant at Bloomfield, N. J. Ready cooperation on part of city officials of Kansas City in changing slightly the course of the Dayton road and unusual assistance from the railroad companies made possible the rapid completion of arrangements for the location of the plant, Chevrolet officials pointed out.

Crater Lake Roads Will Open Early

Present indications are that the roads both from Klamath Falls and from Medford to Crater Lake National Park in Oregon, will be passable for motor travel about the middle of June, the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile Association announced today. Ordinarily roads to Crater Lake do not open until about July first.

At the present time the roads to Diamond Lake are open and in good condition both from Union Creek and from Sand Creek. The road from Crater Lake to Diamond Lake, however, will not be available for motor travel until the road around the rim of the crater is open.

BODY SHOW PERIODS AUTO HISTORY

Automobile body design, which now holds equal interest with engineering changes and improvements, affords an interesting means of dividing motor car history into definite periods, according to L. J. Thomas, local Studebaker and Erskine dealer.

"When the automobile was in its infancy, in the early nineties, there were no standard body styles," he says. "The principal aim then was to build something that would run. Body styles were a secondary matter. As a result any kind of seating arrangement was considered good enough, and passengers sat facing forward, to the rear, and even sideways."

Side entrance tourneys came in 1901 and were general the following year. Soon these models were embellished with the half height door, followed by the four door featured in 1909 and 1910.

"Many freak bodies followed this development—beetle tailed roadsters, torpedo and boat designs. These later disappeared with the advent of the conventional touring car and roadster bodies."

The wide use of closed bodies in this country was retarded by the fact that body design was largely dominated by foreign practices. American-built limousines were shown as far back as 1907, but their sales were limited. Touring cars and coupes followed but only the coupe attained popularity. This was largely due to the fact that Americans liked to drive their own cars.

"It was not until about 1914 that designers brought out a typically American body style—the sedan. This met with immediate approval and led to the preponderance of closed cars that exists today."

It is interesting to note the origin of the word "sedan," particularly since neither English nor European motorists use it to describe that type of car. In England the sedan is called a "saloon" while in France it is a "conducteur," which literally translated, means "inside drive."

Auto Supply Company Has Wide Service

The fact that the Western Auto Supply company through its more than one hundred and fifty western stores can offer a disinterested service to automobile owners is one of the chief reasons for its success, according to the belief of R. J. Kelley, local manager of that company.

"We believe that our company offers a service that no other company in the west can duplicate a service that should mean a great deal to every car owner," says Kelley. "When the motorist equips his car with Western Auto tires he can start out on his vacation trip free from all tire worries and ready to fully enjoy his travels with the guarantee and service of the world's largest auto accessory concern to back his confidence."

"Recently we reduced our already low tire prices just in time for summer vacation requirements and since that announcement has appeared in the newspapers, thousands of automobile owners have taken advantage of the additional savings offered and have purchased Western Giant or Wear well tires. In selecting these tires they are secure in the knowledge that however far from home their summer fishing and camping trips may take them, they will always be near another of our more than one hundred and fifty conveniently located stores, where, if their tires should need servicing, they will be promptly cared for in the full spirit of our 'Customer is always right' policy and our guarantee that assures complete and lasting satisfaction."

"Right now at the start of vacation season, we urge all motorists to check their tires and replace all doubtful ones with new, guaranteed Western Giant or Wear well tires. By turning them in at this time, additional economies may be realized, as Western Auto stores accept old worn out tires as part payment on new tires."

HIGH RECORDS MADE BY TWO CHRYSLER CARS

In the small town of Fillmore, Ventura county, one of the most startling records of Chrysler performance was brought to light last week since Walter P. Chrysler first announced his sensational automobile four years ago, according to Harry Curry, local distributor.

With records of unflinching service for one car since April, 1924, and the other since June of the same year, these two Chryslers have records of mileage of 130,000 and 158,000 miles respectively, two of the most remarkable found since the factory started on a quest of 100,000 mile Chryslers several weeks ago.

The two cars are now owned by father and son, who are B. P. Reeder of the People's Lumber company of Fillmore and Irving Reeder, local garageman.

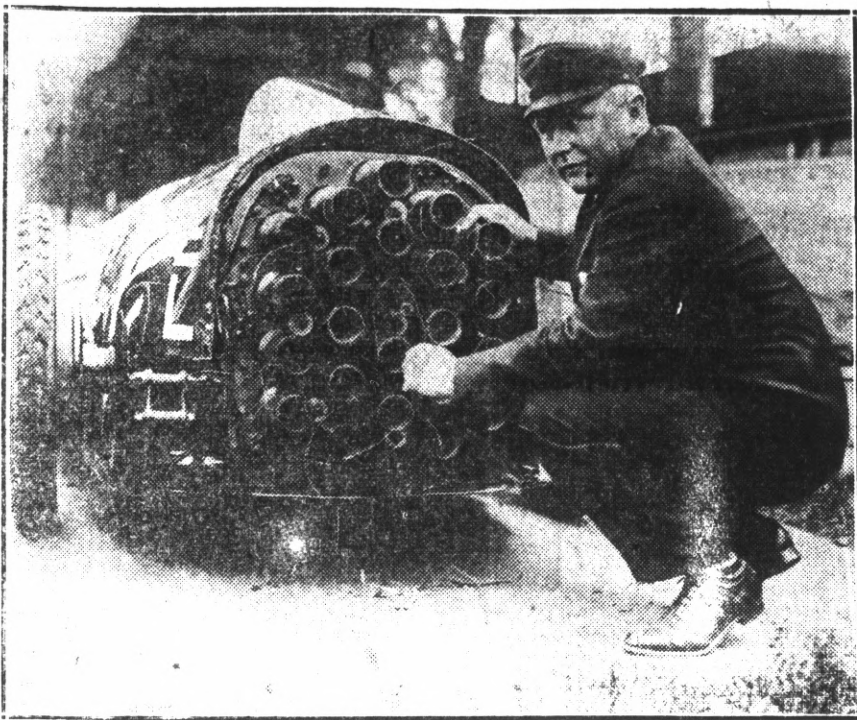

When Chrysler first announced the "60" model at the beginning of the year 1924, some of the first to obtain ownership in California were State traffic officers, whose occupation called for the utmost in stamina, reliability and flashing speed with which to catch the law breakers. Among the first officers in California to get the Chrysler phaetons were Officers Bernie Issisne and Ray Olds of the Ventura county traffic force.

Until December, 1925, these two cars were familiar figures on the state highway and county roads of Ventura county. Records available show that their service was unflinching. Olds driving his car 61,000 miles in eighteen months, and Issisne covering 60,000 miles in 20 months of traffic work.

Irving Reeder got the car Ray drove when state regulations put the motor patrol on motorcycle duty. His father is the third owner of the second car, it having been driven by Harvey Seward for several months.

Asked if the service was satisfactory, Reeder declared that the

"We never have any trouble with them at all, and they look and act as if they will keep right on going indefinitely."

OPEN FOR TRAVEL

The road from Sierra City to Gold Lake is now open and in good condition with the exception of a few spots cut up by winter rains, according to the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile association. Beyond the Plumas County line the road is being worked and will soon be in excellent condition for summer travel.

Motorist Must Report Injury To Police Dept.

Motorists involved in accidents are required by state law to report them in every instance in which anyone is injured, according to a statement issued by the Local Department of the California State Automobile association. It is even advisable for motorists to report serious accidents, whether anyone is hurt or not. It is also pointed out, that data thus supplied may reveal dangerous physical conditions in highways, or at an intersection, which can then be remedied.

BEFORE FLIGHT BUICK CAR WAS PAL OF FLIERS

California and the world still gasps at the hurtling trans-Pacific air dashes of that heroic Australian American in quartette in their giant monoplane "Southern Cross" which only a few short days ago lifted its great frame from the Oakland Airport runway and set off for Australia in successive hops which have astonished the aviation world and broken all its known records for sustained over-water flying.

The gallant flying crew, Captain Charles Kingsford Smith, commander and chief pilot, Captain (Gas) T. P. Uim, relief pilot, Harry W. Lyon, navigator and James Warner, radioman—during preparations for the ocean dash made scores of friends in northern and central California, where their practices flights and other activities centered. It has been with a sense of pride and high gratification that these Californians have watched the success of the "Southern Cross" ocean hops. Especially elated have been those who were privileged to intimately cooperate with the aviators during pre-flight days.

Among the most eager observers of the history-making trip have been C. C. Kratzer, Richmond Buick dealer.

It was last summer during preliminary preparations for the Australia flight, that the association of Captains Smith and Uim and the Buick dealer organization in California commenced. Shortly after introduction of Captain Uim and Buick executives at the flying field, a Gold Seal Buick was secured by the aviators for land transportation during arrangements of flight details.

Later, when circumstances prompted postponement of the flight until this spring and the visitors had taken the "Southern Cross" to Los Angeles for further improvements and addition of equipment, a Buick sedan from the Howard Automobile company in that city was impressed into service for Southland traveling. When the giant Fokker and the Intrepid crew again set down on Oakland Airport, approximately a week previous to the actual flight take-off, they promptly secured two Buick sedans which served them constantly until farewells were waved.

A subject for comment during the consistent use of Buicks by the "Southern Cross" crew was the fact that both the automobiles and the great airplane were powered by the famous valve-in-head engine. The overhead valve principle, it was pointed out, embodied in the three nine-cylindered Wright whirlwind motors of the Fokker, just as it has been in the engines of practically every other plane which during the past year has been successful in completing a record over-water flight.

Trout Fishing In Santa Cruz Ends August 1

All streams in Santa Cruz county are to be closed to trout fishing on August 1, the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile Association announced today. This action is the result of an order issued by Fred G. Stevenson, director of the State Department of Natural Resources, and approved by Governor C. C. Young. The automobile Association was informed today that this action is being taken in the interest of insuring larger growth of the trout planted in Santa Cruz county by the Fish and Game commission and to improve fishing conditions generally in that county.

Colusa Adopts New Traffic Ordinance

Fifty-eight municipalities in California now operate under the provisions of a uniform traffic ordinance with the adoption last week of the ordinance by Colusa. This ordinance, freeing motorists of the annoyance of divergent traffic rules in many cities was drafted by the legal departments of the California State Automobile association and the Automobile club of Southern California. Its adoption throughout California is being sponsored by the two big motoring organizations.

"72" the greatest fact in motor cars today

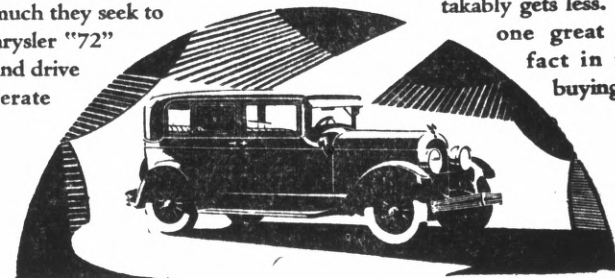

From low price to high, all engineering today takes its cue from Chrysler—yet what are the facts?

Run the gamut of cars, from low to high, which seek to emulate Chrysler—and still the illustrious Chrysler "72" runs easily away from them all with all the honors of flashing, efficient performance!

However much they seek to act like Chrysler "72"—to ride and drive and accelerate and glide like Chrysler "72"—the illustrious "72" continues to leave them all in the rear in brilliant behavior.

There is no escaping this plain fact—that as motor car manufacturing exists today, anyone who pays as much as, or up to a thousand dollars more than the price of Chrysler "72," for another car unmistakably gets less. That is the one great important fact in motor car buying today.

CLOSE GAME IS LOST BY LOCAL CLUB

The crack Cleveland All Stars won from the Sannies yesterday afternoon in first street park by a score of 6 to 4.

The Sannies started out with the intention of winning the game. Jones had a new lineup that looks like the best thing yet. Abe Rose was on second. Quail, former shortstop for the Oregon Aggies, filled that position and looked like the works. Carter was behind home plate and Ambrose relieved Barbieri at third in the eighth inning.

But even with this lineup, the All Stars were too much for them. It was some of the classiest playing on both sides, that the fans of Richmond have seen in the park for a long time. Those colored boys played ball without any apparent effort. The crowd was disappointed in not seeing Pullen, known throughout the country as the "colored Babe Ruth," clout at least one home run, but Fickus was too much for him. He had the Star catcher puzzled and all he managed to get was one hit.

Pickus pitched good ball, fanning two and walking three. The All Stars managed to get eleven hits. Richards finished the game on the mound, entering in the eighth.

Butler twirled for the Stars and was not going so well. He failed to strike out one Sannie. But the Sannies got only four hits.

It was the fielding that did the works on both sides.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

John Mortimer Praises Carp's Right
John Mortimer, the jolly old cove who is associated with Charles Harvey in the management of Tom Heene, declares that in any grouping of great right-hand punchers of the ring the name of Georges Carpentier must certainly be included.

"E had the very devil of a right-hand swipe," Mortimer said the other night. As manager, discoverer and public relations committee of Joe Beckett, who was twice killed by Carpentier, Mortimer should know whereof he speaks.

Before the first Carpentier-Beckett fight, Francois Deschamps, manager of Carpentier, had invited Beckett to go to Paris for an exhibition. Beckett went, and when he performed, Carpentier was right in the front row taking on every detail of the fighting equipment of the British giant.

On the night of the fight in England, the whole British Empire seemed to have been gripped with a feeling of tense expectancy. Admiral Meaux, father of the fleet, elderly, distinguished and a gentleman, even went so far as to go to Beckett's dressing room and exhort him to do his best. "The Empire is praying for your success," the Admiral said.

However, Beckett had no heart for the thing. Mortimer first realized this when one of the hangers-on reported that Carpentier was shadow boxing in the hallway across from Beckett's dressing room. "Hi, Joe, the French blighter is shadow boxing," the hanger-on shouted from the door.

Beckett, growing more and more fidgety, betrayed his timidity then. "To hell with the Frenchman," he piped. "Come away from that door and CLOSE IT."

He was licked before he went to the ring and 77 seconds after the fight started, Joe Beckett, pride of England, was flat on his odd face.

Discovered Beckett With Gypsy Circus
Beckett, splendidly proportioned, but with the heart of a rabbit, was discovered by Mortimer when Beckett, as a lad, was traveling with a boxing booth of a gypsy fair.

These gypsy caravans traveled all over the counties of England during the summer months and the feature was a boxing booth. Six or seven bruisers traveled with it and in each town these, of various weights, challenged the yokels to combat.

Mortimer describes the scene after one of the countrymen had agreed to fight. The ballyhoo man stepped to the ring, would say: "Gentlemen, on my right you have Patsy Merk, undefeated since he joined this famous aggregation of boxing champions, and on my left, the stranger who came forward to give him a bit of a go."

"Whatever you see pass between them in this ring, pass no rude remarks; if their efforts meet with your approval and are worthy of your appreciation, put your hands together in the good old English sporting manner."

Then the announcer, having tactfully suggested applause, would wheel on the stranger and the circus standby and in a shrill voice he'd yell: "Time—now you devils, get together." And after the fight they would pass the hat for a noble or contribution.

It was with such a gypsy caravan that John Mortimer found Joe Beckett, and impressed by the fellow's wonderful physique, took him away with him.

Lacked the Heart His Brother Had
It has been a matter of some serious comment that Joe Beckett lacked heart, while his brother, George, the famous middleweight, was known throughout England for his fighting appetite.

Mortimer managed George Beckett, too, and says that George was one of the gamest men he ever knew. I asked Mortimer what freak of blood produced those two extremes in one family.

"That's easy," said John. "The mother married twice, first Joe Beckett, Sr., and then a chap named Franklin. The Beckett, the fighter, was the son of Joe Beckett, Sr., while the George Beckett was the son of George Franklin. But George adopted the name of Beckett because Joe had achieved some distinction in the ring at that time. They were only half brothers."

YANKS CINCH PENNANT ON WESTERN TRIP

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor
The New York Yankees wind up their western visit assured of the American League pennant for 1928.

Attendance figures while the world's champions were on the road attested to the fact that fans will flock to see winners, and that the third runaway race in three successive years has not hurt gate receipts as far as games in which the Yankees take part are concerned.

There is considerable agitation in organized baseball however, in favor of making the American League pennant race more of a sporting proposition.

Col. Jake Ruppert owner of the Yankees, is more than willing that this be done, although you might not think so if you heard him rooting fervently for his ball club.

The difference between the general colonel's views of the matter and those of the malcontents is this: the latter propose to weaken the Yanks in some way, so that the other club owners will stand a chance of beating them; whereas Ruppert suggests that the other club owners go out and buy themselves some baseball players.

"Let us," says the Yankees' owner, "have eight good ball clubs if possible, not eight mediocre ones."

The genial colonel is in the business of baseball for the fun he gets out of it rather than with an eye to making money. Not all the major league owners can afford to take such a broad view of the national pastime. To some, each baseball made by one of their players means bread and butter and Kiddie Kars.

Forest Fire Losses Due To Lack Of Precaution

Last year 853 forest fires were caused by human agency, according to information received by the National Automobile club from the United States Forestry Service which is preparing for the coming dry season and an increased forest fire hazard.

The total number of forest fires in National Forest areas last year was 1244, of which it is reported 122 were set by incendiaries, 135 by careless campers, and 299 by equally careless smokers who disregarded the law which prohibits smoking in National forests during certain seasons of the year.

Unless more rain falls within the next couple of weeks, the Forest Service points out, this year the dry season will be more disastrous in forest fires than 1927, which was a comparatively light year. This was due, the service says, to late rains that lasted well into the summer.

This year, regulations governing the carrying of axes and shovels by campers entering the National Forest areas have been changed to require the carrying of both larger shovels and axes. It was found that those carried heretofore were not large enough for the purpose.

The new regulations will require a shovel having a blade wider than 6 inches and a handle at least 36 inches long. The new axe must have a head weighing 2 to 2½ lb and having a handle of about 28 inches long. It is indicated however, by the service that those who have the old axes and shovels need not immediately purchase the new ones.

Bucks Ranch Road Is In Good Shape

Motorists travelling into the Plumas county district will find the Bucks ranch road from Oroville to Quincy in excellent condition. This route is also in good condition from Quincy to Chester. One of the association's scout cars which covered this route last week reported pavement for the first seven miles out of Oroville followed by two miles of oiled road. From the end of the oil over the Hart's Mill grade to Merrimac, the route is also in very good condition except for a short rough stretch of about 100 feet. Recent work has really improved the route over the Walker Plains and made it a very good road to the summit.

From the summit to Bucks ranch on to Quincy this route has been worked and graded and is in excellent condition.

S.F. CHOSEN FOR WESTERN AUTO CLUB MEETING

San Francisco will be the meeting place of organized motordom of the West next September, when secretaries and managers of affiliated western clubs gather for their annual conference. The California State Automobile association will be host to the visiting executives of western motoring organizations and D. E. Watkins, its secretary and general manager, is in charge of arrangements.

Watkins announced the dates of the three day conference as September 20, 21, 22.

Exploitation of western scenic attractions, routing of millions of motor tourists through western states, portation of personal motoring services rendered by the clubs, interchange of services for members between clubs and traffic and touring problems common in western states will be among the subjects before the conference. Seventeen motoring organizations of western United States and Canada will be represented at the meeting. Reports from all of these organizations indicate excellent progress in growth of membership this year. Service potentialities available to the member are being raised to further high levels and the strength and efficiency of organized motordom is declared at a peak in western states.

The program of the delegates includes an inspection, at the close of the conference, of the building, equipment and service facilities of the California State Automobile association, largest of the 1,046 affiliated American Automobile association clubs that form a nation-wide network of service units.

WALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. When necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. It's a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless. It works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

ROTARIANS IN MINNEAPOLIS FOR CONCLAVE

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16.—(U.P.)—The vanguard of a gathering of more than 10,000 business and professional men from nearly every corner of the world has reached Minneapolis tonight for the 19th Rotary International convention.

Steamers, special trains, automobiles and airplanes are beginning to unload their delegations, some of which have been enroute for six weeks. It will be the largest gathering which has yet been held in the city.

Thousands of private automobiles have been signed up for the convention week, to convey the Rotarians guests to their hotels and about the city to numerous points of interest, the parks and nearby flour mills and other scenes.

The convention activities began to go on the air tonight, station KSTP invited the representatives of many of the overseas delegations to make brief talks to the American people as a greeting from Rotarians in distant lands in furtherance of world friendship.

A week of lively entertainment has been prepared by the Minneapolis host club for the visitors and their wives, occupying each evening after the formal welcome extended on Monday night.

A choral concert, a symphony orchestra concert, dancing, golf, water carnival, fireworks, and outdoor recreations have been scheduled to occupy every moment outside the convention sessions.

The Melbourne, Australia club has forwarded the attendance trophy it carried off last year at the Oostend, Belgium, convention, for the greatest mileage of any delegation. Sydney Australia, was victor the previous year.

Official words of welcome from Governor Christianson, Mayor Leach and Edward F. Zelle, president of the Minneapolis Rotary club open the Monday night program. Arthur H. Sapp of Huntington, Indiana, president of Rotary International, will respond.

Greetings to the new member clubs in countries into which the Rotary has gone in the last year.

Boosts His Choice

will be extended by President Sapp, with the announcement that there are now 44 countries embraced in Rotary.

In the past five years Rotary has grown from 1400 clubs to nearly 2900 clubs. Dr. William Cuno, president of the Rotary club of Hamburg, Germany, and former chancellor of Germany, will respond in the name of the new member countries.

struction begins. The building is understood to be the first unit of an extensive plant, since the company owns two entire blocks adjoining the laboratory site. The building will occupy an area of approximately 42 by 250 feet, and will be of concrete construction, three stories high. It will be used as an experimental laboratory by chemists of the company.

CITY ENGINEER IS NEAR DEATH FROM STABBING

Ralph Nass, city engineer at Antioch, was brought to the county hospital at Martinez yesterday, suffering from serious knife wounds about the chest. Nass, according to H. G. Preston, deputy coroner at Antioch who questioned bystanders, is alleged to have been stabbed by several Mexicans at the Antioch S. P. Depot. He was taken to the office of Dr. J. B. Blackshaw, at Antioch where he was given first aid. Nass was in half stupor and unable to speak, only mumbling "Mexicans" "S. P. Depot" and something about being robbed.

Physicians at the county hospital find the condition of Nass quite serious because of the loss of blood and the numerous wounds on his body. They were preparing to operate on Nass at present time. Several deputies are now investigating the case.
